

Truman Blasts Rail Strikers---Army Serves Ultimatum

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President Truman today bitterly denounced the railroad strike as "intolerable" and ordered the army to take "appropriate action" at once to restore full rail operations.

He said the leaders of the striking unionists had acted like a bunch of Russians by running out on an agreement last December for ending the workers' wage-hour dispute with the railroads.

Mr. Truman refused to tell a news conference, however, whether his order to the army called for drafting of strikers—a move he recommended in the 1946 strike just before it folded—or for use of soldiers to operate trains still tied up.

Meanwhile the army served notice on striking railway men today they will be dismissed unless they report for work by 4 P. M. (EST) Saturday or can prove they were physically unable to work.

At the same time, the army placed in effect hourly wage increases effective as of last Oct. 1, for men who have had no increase since September, 1948.

Secretary of the Army Pace announced the order within two hours after President Truman had instructed the army take necessary action for full operation of the railroads. In harsh language, Mr. Truman told a news conference striking railroad workers had run out on an agreement like a bunch of Russians.

The army said the wage increase would be of an interim nature pending final settlement of the dispute between railroad management and unions over wages and working conditions. It said back payments to Oct. 1 will be made as soon as accounting and necessary adjustments can be made.

The army order and notice was sent to all railroad unions and rail operators involved in the work stoppage.

Mr. Truman first read reporters a formal statement deploring the strike and saying there are still some "ill advised or irresponsible

No Relief from Cold Seen---3 Below Here

One county school—Jeffersonville—was closed Thursday following the second day of the cold wave, which brought no relief from the sheets of ice and biting cold.

The Jeffersonville schools were closed, Supt. Carl M. Boring said, mostly because it was impossible to heat the buildings satisfactorily and partly because of the snow drifting over the already icy country roads. In several rooms, youngsters had to wear their overcoats to keep warm Wednesday.

The sub zero weather again created another emergency so far as natural gas supplies were concerned, the Dayton Power and Light Co., here reported Thursday morning. Reports indicated that the gas shortage was widespread throughout Ohio.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. issued the following requests to natural gas users here:

"All industrial and commercial establishments using gas are urgently requested to cut back to 50% of their normal usage.

"All residential customers are to reduce temperatures to 68 degrees during the day, 55 degrees at night; to close off all unused rooms and to use a minimum of gas for cooking and water heating. "Homes using fuel other than gas for heating are not to use gas space heaters or gas stoves for supplementary heating."

Meanwhile, the forecast for Thursday night was for more cold weather. Friday, the weatherman was forecasting warmer weather, with the possibility of some light snow Friday night.

Coyt Stookey, weather observer here, said the mercury slid to three degrees below zero Wednesday night, and at 8 o'clock Thursday morning it had only risen one degree, to two below.

Without a break in the temperatures Wednesday, the icy sheets continued to cover all exposed surfaces in the city and county. Traffic was still slowed considerably.

Cold Wave in Ohio Brings Gas Emergency

(By The Associated Press)

A new cold wave shoved the mercury near zero in Ohio today and created a heating gas emergency for the second time within a week.

Razor-sharp winds that accompanied the cold wave are expected to continue through Friday.

Railroad Tie-up Virtually Over; No Settlement

Ruins of Capital Blasted Again By U. S. Tanks

Reds Beaten Back And Slaughtered as UN Forces Advance

BY OLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO, Feb. 8.—(AP)—American tanks shelled the blackened remains of Seoul today and Puerto Rican doughboys seized a commanding height only 4½ miles south of the former Korean Republic capital.

The entire Allied line in western Korea advanced another mile or more toward Seoul. The Chinese had their quitted backs to the icy Han River by the desolated city. Red resistance was crumbling.

A staff officer said it appeared likely the Reds would withdraw to the north bank of the winding Han. The river began to thaw Wednesday but froze over again tonight. Snow fell on the western front.

Without firing a shot, the Puerto Ricans took 1,800-foot Mangyong mountain overlooking Seoul. It is the highest peak before the city. So quickly had the Chinese fled their positions the Puerto Ricans found rice still warm in bowls.

General Advance

The general advance followed in the wake of tiger-faced tanks of the U. S. 25th Division. The armored column—task force Dolvin—plunged over mined roads to within four miles of Seoul, shelled the city and then withdrew for the night.

Other tank-led forces rammed ahead more than a mile to move the Allied line to within 5½ miles of Seoul. One of the armored columns, south-southeast of Seoul, was identified as from the U. S. Third Division. This was task force Fisher.

Red resistance was stiffer on the central and east-central fronts. However, gains in those sectors ranged up to eight miles. Warships hammered both coasts. Warplanes lashed at Red supply lines in the north and on the east coast.

Faces of ferocious tigers had been painted on the blunt noses of the tanks in task force Dolvin to frighten the superstitious Chinese Red peasant soldiers.

In Sight of Seoul

AP Correspondent Jim Becker, with the armored column, said Lt. Col. Tom Dolvin of Columbus, Ga., stood on a summit during the plunge northward, and observed: "If it wasn't so hazy you could probably see Seoul today from where we are standing."

It was the nearest ground approach to Seoul by the Allies since they abandoned the city Jan. 4. Most of the capital's 1,500,000 population has fled. The city is regarded as of no military significance now.

Task force Dolvin was one of three punching at Chinese south of the Han. Also pressing hard on the Reds were ground troops of the U. S., Britain, Greece, Turkey, France, Puerto Rico and South Korea.

They hammered the enemy at a dozen places along a 75-mile front stretching inland from the Yellow Sea, in the west, to Changyang in the east-central sector.

On the left flank of task force Dolvin, and west of the main road to Seoul, Puerto Rican infantrymen advanced 2½ miles three important hills littered with (Please turn to Page Two)

Atomic Explosions Heat Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—(AP)

—Los Angeles is radioactively "hotter"—but not dangerously so—than it was before the recent atomic explosions near Las Vegas, Nev., 300 miles away.

A survey of Geiger counters in use in industry here showed yesterday a rise of 12 to 25 percent in "background count."

Scrap over State Sales Tax Is on; Municipal Court Issue Back Again

COLUMBUS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—State Senate Republicans today appeared ready to block a drive by the Democratic administration to junk the present sales tax system in favor of a gross receipts tax.

Sen. C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens), chairman of the powerful Senate finance committee, offered a bill yesterday to strengthen the sales tax law and plug the leaks. He estimates the state can collect as much as $50,000,000 more in the next two years by patching the leaks in the present law.

A gross receipts tax law was urged by the Tax and Revenue Study Commission, of which Mechem is a member. Mechem, however, refused to sign the recommendation. Gov. Frank J. Lausche urged a gross receipts tax in his state of the state message to the legislature.

Several sales tax bills, all authorized by Democrats, have been offered in this session of the general assembly, but no action has been taken on any of them. Such a tax would abandon the stamp system and make a three-percent levy on retailers on all sales of taxable merchandise above 13 cents.

Mechem said his revamped sales tax will produce as much extra revenue as a gross receipts tax and will be a better system.

Briefly, this is what Mechem's changes in the sales tax law would do:

Authorize the employment of more auditors. The auditing staff now can check only about 8,000 of the state's 240,000 vendors each year. More widespread auditing will bring in another $10,000,000 a year, he believes.

15 Are Killed In Explosion In St. Paul

BULLETIN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 8.—(AP)

At least 15 persons were reported killed and another 20 injured in an explosion that ripped through the minerals building of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company plant today.

The Ramsey County morgue reported it had the bodies of 15 victims. Ancker (City) Hospital said it had at least 20 injured persons and that ambulances were "bringing them in by the load."

Other injured were taken to St. Luke's and St. John's Hospitals. No check could be made of the number in those hospitals.

Persons at the scene said "at least 40 persons" were taken from the building. Faces of the victims were blackened and several were screaming and moaning in pain.

The explosion occurred in the varnish plant, located in the minerals buildings, a six-story structure. Fire that broke out in the varnish plant threatened to destroy the building.

Emergency calls were made for extra doctors and for blood for transfusions. A surgical supply firm was called on to furnish oxygen.

The blast blew out two sides of the minerals building.

Use of Metal For Cars Cut

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The government plans a cut of 25 to 40 percent April 1 in the amount of basic metals going into automobiles, stoves and home appliances.

Officials of the National Production Authority (NPA) disclosed this today, saying it will be necessary to save steel, copper and aluminum for defense purposes.

The cut in actual number of cars and appliances produced may be somewhat smaller than the cut in allowed use of metals, these officials said.

It will depend on the manufacturers' ability to substitute and conserve, using such things as plastics, for instance, in place of metals.

Experienced Soldiers To Be Sent to Korea

CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Two top army officials disclosed yesterday a nationwide shipment of experienced soldiers will provide needed reinforcements in Korea.

Gen. Mark Clark, chief of army field forces, told a news conference trained men are being pulled out of army units all over the country because General Douglas MacArthur said he needs them.

Secretary of Army Frank Pace, Jr., who came here with Clark to watch the 28th Infantry Division in combat-style training, confirmed Clark's statement.

Pace added that he hopes such an emergency will not occur again. He said no specific mission has been decided on for the 28th, the former National Guards unit in Pennsylvania.

Small Business Faces Problems

Future in Balance With War Contracts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8.—(AP)

Small businesses must find themselves a niche in the nation's mobilization economy or close their doors, says Harry E. Blythe, assistant secretary of defense.

Blythe, who is also advisor to the chairman of the munitions board, sounded that warning in a small business clinic question-and-answer period yesterday.

One of the questions posed to the panel of government experts on defense contracts was:

"Some of us would have to re-tool to get into manufacturing for the government but others are set up and ready to go. Will we be forced to close our doors because our competitors have the jump on us?"

"Unless you can convert and find your place in the mobilization economy you would have to close your doors," Blythe answered.

"This is not a snide remark, either," he added.

Crimp Is on Now

Elaborating Blythe said "of course in full mobilization comes the country would utilize every foot of space and every machine," but that in the current "one-third" mobilization effort the crimp is put on the man who cannot manufacture for defense or without critical materials.

The small business clinic which completed a three-day Louisiana schedule here last night, has been touring the nation to tell small businesses how to bid on government contracts.

The answers to the businessmen's questions pointed up the disadvantages the small manufacturer faces in competing with big corporations for contracts.

"There is no statute that provides for preferential treatment to small business," Comdr. P. F. Ashler, chief of the small business office of the munitions board, told the 300 businesses represented.

Mysterious Noise Cause Discovered

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 8.—(AP)

A solution was found today for the mystery noise on Springfield's north side.

The "motor-like" sounds had aroused many residents from their sleep. Police and city officials received inquiries.

Today the noise was attributed to the twanging of metal clothes lines, tightened to harp-like tension by sub-zero temperatures, and vibrating in the wind.

Clothing Price Freeze To Be Ended

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The government is almost ready to unfreeze the retail prices of men's clothes, women's clothes, cosmetics, furniture, rugs, lamps, pots and pans. One immediate result will be many price rises.

In place of the present tight freeze on those and similar items, the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) will restrict the percentage of "margin" between what the retailer pays and what he receives.

OPS officials said the new regulation will probably be issued late this week or early next week. It will be the first of a series of "margin" type orders which were promised when the temporary price freeze of Jan. 25 was announced.

Here is why price rises are expected: The new regulation will enable retailers to pass on to their customers many increases that wholesalers had put into effect before the Jan. 25 freeze date.

Governments economists say a certain amount of that must occur to prevent an intolerable squeeze on retailers whose costs have gone up.

They say this is one thing Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson had in mind yesterday when he pre-

We who live here think Washington C. H. is just about the best place there is to call home. Maybe we're prejudiced, but when people come here for the first time for a visit like it so much they move in . . . well that's pretty conclusive proof that we've got something.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Harmon of Orlando, Fla., came here to visit their old friends Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Wolfe, and were so impressed that they decided to make Washington C. H. their home.

Right away they started looking for a house. Finally, they selected the Henry A. Link home on Washington Avenue and made a deal.

They have gone back to Kentucky for a short visit and then plan to dispose of their Florida property and come back here soon to settle down in their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe came here from Augusta, Ky., about a year ago. Mrs. William H. Lovell is their daughter. The Lovells have lived here for a number of years. Mr. Lovell is a practicing attorney.

There is an old saying that "there's more than one way to kill a cat."

Of course, that's just a figure of speech.

Bill Clarke and the boys at his garage have applied the same thought to getting rid of the huge piles of snow pushed up along Fayette Street to clear a path to the door and gasoline pumps.

When the temperatures got high enough Monday afternoon, Lonnie Price got in the faithful little purpose Jeep and started smashing down a pile of snow along the street. He'd gun the motor and ram through the snow squashing it out. Then he'd throw it in reverse and smash through again.

Doing this time and again, using a sort of criss-cross pattern and at the same time giving the wheels a sudden twist to throw the little car into a skid just as it hit the snow, it was not long until the pile was scattered over the street . . . and melting.

That's a practical application of that great old American ingenuity and know-how.

Train Wreck Toll Is 83--Probe Begun; Speed Cause, Belief

WOODBIDGE, N. J., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Separate probes into the cause of the third major rail disaster within a year in the New York Metropolitan area underway today while critically injured victims of the latest fought for life.

Inquiries into the death-trap derailment of a commuter-crowded Pennsylvania Railroad train Tuesday night were scheduled by the Interstate Commerce Commission in New York and the Middlesex County prosecutor's office in nearby New Brunswick.

Today's hearings were the latest in a series of multi-pronged probes set in motion shortly after "The Broker" wavered and reeled off the tracks near a temporary trestle killing 83 persons.

Several possible or contributory causes were mentioned yesterday including sabotage and the apparent high speed of the 11-car train as it approached a caution area.

The excessive speed angle gained further credence yesterday after the engineer of the ill-fated passenger train was quoted in a hospital-bedside interview as saying he was doing 50 miles an hour in a railroad-fixed 25 mile an hour zone.

DAMAGES SOUGHT
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Claims and lawsuits totaling as much as $75,000,000 probably will be filed against the Pennsylvania Railroad as a result of Tuesday night's disastrous train wreck at Woodbridge, N. J.

The eventual payoff is expected to amount to an estimated $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, most of it borne by the railroad itself.

Cool Pipeline
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The world's largest commercial coal company disclosed today it will build a $550,000 demonstration sized coal pipeline system to transport coal. The system will be located near Cadiz, Ohio, at the site of the Georgetown surface mining operation.

A Dangerous Admission If It Were True

Regardless of the apparent need for wage and price control as a move against inflation, it should be pointed out that this is another step in the direction of economic regimentation.

It is an admission by the American people that it is impossible for them to manage their affairs, a condition which most people think has been brought about by too much government regulation and interference.

An attempt is now being made to cure the disease by administering larger doses of the nostrum which caused it.

This nation's economic system was for many years the envy of the world. It guaranteed free enterprise, the worker was presumed to be worthy of his hire, and the law of supply and demand was the controlling factor.

All these fundamentals have been set aside by government interference—the administration's efforts to cater to certain interests and groups in behalf of votes.

This has put the whole economic system out of balance, and when the present crisis came the complications were multiplied.

If the wage-price freeze means anything, it is that the entire economic structure must be operated under government regulation. In the past this has proved to be not only futile but harmful. Business, industry and labor no longer are permitted to function freely in behalf of the best interests of the nation.

Washington D. C. is calling the tunes and everybody is expected to dance to them, regardless of the outcome.

Production True Key to Victory

As our troops struggle in Korea's mountains and plains in spirited advance or dejected retreat, every true American wants to help.

Unfortunately, most of us can't play star parts at the front. But each of us can play a part in the battle of production. And more production is the key to ultimate victory.

More production means that our fighters at the front will have more and better weapons—not "too little and too late". More production means that we can turn out those weapons and still maintain civilian health.

For those reasons, the test of good government, good management, and good labor in the period ahead is how much each can contribute to increased production.

We can't all be heroes in the battle for Korea, but each of us—man and woman, 4-F and those too old for service—can all be valiant in the battle of production if we devote our hearts, our minds, and our bodies to hard unselfish work at our allotted tasks.

Litterbugs

Is it always to be a will-of-the-wisp chase—this day-in, day-out effort to get people to keep roads and streets clean? It will always be a chase, it seems, whether it is a mother after children to get them to pick up things, or a policeman who sees a flash of beer cans being tossed out of a car window and lectures the driver a minute later.

In New York City the department of sanitation, fed up with litter on the streets, is doing some public spanking of adults.

If summonses were issued here, and the names of the careless persons made public, there is little doubt real improvement would be noticeable.

Humor, Dirt, Death---That's War

By Jim Becker
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

WESTERN FRONT, Korea — (AP)—Watching the Korean war was like earning a living; I had to start sometime.

Sometime for me was a few weeks ago. Here are some impressions the war has made on this newcomer—impressions that it might have made on you if you were seeing it for the first time:

The legendary sense of humor is alive in this nondescript country, probably the only spot in the world where it can be muddy and dusty at the same time.

A frontline infantryman was stalled behind a mudbank.

A lieutenant was stalled in the next mudpuddle.

"The next time we have visitors I want you to shave, sergeant," grinned the lieutenant. The sergeant fingered the black stubble that nearly hid his face. "You are supposed to set me an example," he drawled at the officer whose beard was even blacker.

Just sleeping, eating, keeping clean—functions which you take for granted—are ordeals to the combat soldier. He sleeps in a hole in the ground—it's easier to dig now that the ground is thawing out but sure is muddy—he eats his canned rations any way he can—"some jerk left the can opener out of every C ration that our company got today and we had to open the cans with bayonets"—and almost never washes—"it's hardly worth the trouble heating the water if you can find any."

If there is a house left in Korea you won't find it around here. The incredible destruction of war is everywhere as opposing armies struggle over the same ground for the third time.

Almost all civilians have left the battle area. The few remaining mill aimlessly through rubble streets. They are not interested in cleaning up the mess. Owners of small business have disappeared, leaving their investment in machinery and equipment behind. Fires and bombs and shells have struck again and again and you can see the blackened ruins of equipment through gaping holes in the walls of tiny shops.

In one shop there is a mangled printing press that has been burned and returned into usefulness. Type is scattered over the floor amid piles of filthy plaster. You can imagine the mood of utter despair and hopelessness of the owner if he returns and sees the ruins of his livelihood.

Clean-cut young American men are dying here daily. Other young Americans have learned to accept the fact and go on about their business—which is killing Chinese.

"Sometimes you don't even get a chance to learn the names of the new guys before they get it," said a GI.

secure in the knowledge that no enemy planes will come. Many trucks and jeeps sport gaily colored panels to identify them to friendly planes.

Fighting GIs gather around a fire only a few thousand yards from the front. "It must be tough on the Chinese," said one soldier squatting beside a roaring blaze. "They cannot light fires to get warm. They just have to sit and take it. If those planes or those artillery spotters saw a wisp of smoke they would have a nice target."

The oft-told tale of army waste and inefficiency may be true to some extent in rear echelons but that is not true here. The vehicles knocked out for these rice fields have been stripped of every workable part. Nothing is wasted. Every scrap of the uninspiring food is scraped out of the can or mess kit. Gas and oil are guarded miserly motor pool attendants. Socks and woolen underwear are issued as if each contained a hundred dollar bill. Vehicles are nursed like an only child.

Although death and wounds are the star boarders, these men seldom talk about them. A good way to end a thriving conversation is to discuss the fighting. The front line soldier busily and efficiently accomplishes his daily tasks but he does not want to talk about it when his day's work is finished.

When you get home from a hard day at the office you probably like to change the subject too.

Diet and Health Limit Barbiturates To Doctor's Orders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

In these days, nearly everybody has heard of cases of "goof-ball" poisoning. These drugs are known to doctors as barbiturates. When properly used, under the direction of a physician, to quiet overexcited nerves and produce sleep they serve a good purpose.

Unfortunately, however, a great many people use them without the guidance that makes them safe, so that little by little they become addicted to them. This situation has led to many accidental poisonings.

Vary the Amount

The symptoms of poisoning with these drugs vary with the amount taken. There may be such things as mental confusion, trouble in walking, difficulty in swallowing, vomiting, and nervous excitement. When extremely large doses have been taken, the person may become unconscious, his breathing may be short and rapid, the pupils of the eyes contracted and fixed, the reflexes absent, the heart beat weak, and the blood pressure low.

Of course, history from the patient's family makes immediate diagnosis easy. Treatment is a more difficult problem. Its aim is to combat the action of the barbiturates and to prevent complications, such as lung infection and disturbances of circulation through the arteries which supply the heart muscle with blood. One drug suggested as being quite helpful in treating these patients is picrotoxin. This drug stimulates the centers in the brain which have to do with breathing and circulation. Of course, care must be taken not to give too much because excessive amounts of this preparation also cause severe reactions, such as vomiting, sweating and diarrhea, as well as slow heart beat.

Persons who have been poisoned with barbiturates seem to be resistant to the action of the picrotoxin. To augment the effects of picrotoxin, it has been suggested that it be used together with amphetamine. In this way, a smaller dose of the more dangerous drug can be used.

In carrying out the treatment, the picrotoxin is injected into a vein and the amphetamine into a muscle. Six doses are given at fifteen-minute intervals. If the patient shows no restlessness at the end of this time, four additional doses at fifteen-minute intervals are administered.

Barbiturates should always be used with care. They should never be left where a child can get hold of them, and they should always be plainly labeled so that accidental overdosage may be avoided. If poisoning should occur, prompt treatment may be life saving.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A Reader: What is the cause of white spots under the eye and on my neck?

Answer: It is possible that you have what is known as leukoderma, the exact cause of which is not known. Too much exposure to the sunlight may be partly responsible. Heredity is thought to be a factor by some investigators. Leukoderma is also present in leuc, but this is not a common cause.

There is not much that can be done for this condition. However, there are skin preparations available which can be used to cover up the white spots. Also, certain drugs, such as arsenic and extracts of the thyroid and suprarenal glands, are given internally. The pigment around the white patches may be bleached out with certain solutions prescribed by the physician.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor:
Having read in Wash Fayette's column that you desire letters from your readers we thought we would write concerning the times.

We see very little faith today in our Savior and in our fellow-men, which is a very dangerous and weakening state to be in. We celebrate the birth of Christ and the Resurrection or Easter, still there is very little praise or faith in the Lord, which is displeasing to God. Also our calendar is based on Christ's being on earth why shouldn't we have faith in Him and atonement? (Christ's redemption sacrifice).

According to the news today, the United Nations assembly sounds as though it is like putting lions and bears and all sorts of beasts together to try to make peace and unity between them which to us seems impossible.

This is not our prophecy but Bible, we read in the book of Revelations (13 and 14 chapters) concerning the beast of the earth which has reference to the wicked rulers of the earth. According to these Scriptures there will be one which will receive power to rule all the people of the earth.

A few years back it was hard to see how this would come to pass, but I'm asking you now: "Does that seem so impossible today?" It even gives the number of that wicked ruler (Rev. 13:18): "Here is wisdom, let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast for it is the number of a man and his number is six hundred three score and six" (666).

The eighth verse of Chapter 13 says: "And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship Him, whose names are not written in the book of life of a lamb slain from the foundation of the world."

Verse 16 says: "And he caused all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads."

Verse 17: "And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name."

Can we see any forerunners of this today? Controls, dictators, power seekers, war against churches and all sorts of wickedness in high places.

We must remember the beast is against Christ (anti-Christ). It would be far better to suffer martyrdom than to take the mark of the beast.

Rev. 14: 9-10 "If any man worship the beast and his image and receive his mark in his forehead or in his hand the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the Holy Angels in the presence of the Lamb (Christ)."

Jesus spoke in Matthew 10:28: "And fear not that which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear in which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."

We feel there are many today who are ignorant concerning Bible prophecy which is bound to come to pass and in my opinion is coming to pass every day. Some signs of Christ second coming: The love of many waxing cold, children disobedient to parents, wars and rumors of wars, earthquakes and false prophets (beware) these may be as foreign language to the person who does not read the Bible which is the great truth and living word of God.

We are not much in favor of the confederation of churches, labor or farmers in a big way because as I see it, it will make things just so much easier for the big dictator to get the power to rule the world.

Un-American Probes Threatened by Fed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—An undercover revolt simmered today among Republican members of the House Un-American activities committee who are demanding more action and a greater voice in committee affairs.

It threatened to break into the open on the House floor if Chairman Wood (D-Ga) continues what dissatisfied Republicans have branded a "sitdown." And two members told newsmen privately they would resign if the group continues inactive.

Wood was out of the city and not available for comment. He had tentatively called an organization meeting for this week, but it may be postponed because he was called to South Carolina by the death

Charity Gambling Proposed for Ohio

COLUMBUS, Feb. 8—(AP)—A bill before the Ohio House of representatives seeks to legalize gambling for the benefit of charity.

Rep. Paul B. Siple (D-Lawrence) introduced the measure yesterday. It would require profits from gambling to go for charitable purposes, and county prosecutors would be authorized to examine records of gambling operations to see that the law was obeyed.

The Colony Club, closed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche's anti-gambling drive, is located in Siple's County.

Ohio statute now permits bingo gambling for charitable purposes out a Cuyahoga County court has held this violates the state constitution, which prohibits lotteries.

Controversy of 'The Yalta Legend' By George Sokolsky

The "Philadelphia Bulletin," by entitling an editorial, "The Yalta Legend," got itself into a minor controversy. For Yalta is a fact, not a legend; it has already cost us perhaps as many as 60,000 casualties in Korea, besides forcing upon us preparatory mobilization for a general war.

In a footnote to a reader's protest, the editor clarifies his views, which come down to what might be called "the law of necessity."

He says: "The United States was free to suggest what Russia ought to do in this territory; but unless this country was then, before the Nazi war was over, prepared to break with Russia, we could not enforce our idea."

That is a good starting point for a discussion of "the law of necessity," which is an application of a very old rule of thumb that the pleasantest way out of a dilemma is the easiest way. It is a temporary relief from pressure by principles of morality. It eases the conscience somewhat.

Gangster parlance terms it the alibi, in the sense that if an action cannot be explained, it can be explained away. Little boys do it all the time -- and generals of losing armies are often like little boys: they do what necessity seems to dictate and then try to wriggle out of it. The successful wriggler is a great strategist; the unsuccessful, a great disappointment.

The Yalta conference met in February, 1945 when the United States was the most powerful nation on earth. At that conference, Mr. Roosevelt handed the baton of power to Soviet Russia, and we have been a diminishing power since. The price we exacted from Soviet Russia was that the Russians should cease to be neutral in our war with Japan.

The moral issue was whether in a global war, in which the United States had come to the aid of Russia to the tune of $11,000,000,000 to mention only money and not lives, Russia had any justification for remaining neutral in any phase of the war. The argument against Russia having a second front was equally good against the United States having a second front.

After concessions had been made at Yalta, where hundreds of millions of human beings were sold into subjection and slavery, Russia did not enter that war until Japan was defeated and pleading for peace V-J Day was August 15, 1945; Russia entered the Far Eastern war on August 8, 1945. And note that date of Hiroshima was August 6, 1945. In a word, Russia entered that war two days after the atom bomb was hurled at Japan and seven days before the termination of that war.

To say, as the editor of the "Philadelphia Bulletin" does: "...it is now generally conceded that it was the military advisers in this country who pressed Roosevelt to do almost anything to get Russia into that war. They thought it necessary. We now know it wasn't." is insufficient. How many lives have been lost because these generals did not know the facts of life. To say, as this editor does: "...But all this is hindsight," is begging the question.

Actually, important persons and unimportant ones, like myself, did call attention to the errors that were being made. Herbert Hoover, Hugh Gibson, William C. Bullitt, Joseph P. Kennedy, Charles Lindbergh and a host of others, from 1938 to this very day, have been calling attention to the dangers of unprincipled conduct, but they were smeared by the very people who now slough off the errors and call wisdom, hindsight.

I do not believe that the general statement that Roosevelt acted as he did at Yalta because of his military advisers is true. I think that he acted as he did because he wanted to act that way and that political generals fell in with his views.

Present at Yalta, as military advisers to President Roosevelt, were: Admiral William D. Leahy, General George C. Marshall, Admiral Ernest J. King, Lieutenant General Brehon B. Somervell, Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, Vice Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., Major General John R. Deane, Major General John E. Hull, Major General Laurence S. Kuter.

Are they responsible? Also present were Harry Hopkins and Alger Hiss. Were they as responsible as the generals and admirals? It would be interesting to know the whole truth.

Income Tax Questions

Watch Deductions

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—This is a reminder to watch your deductions in filing your 1950 income tax return.

Be sure you claim all you can, rightfully, since the deductions are subtracted from your income before what's left can be taxed.

You have no problem if your income was under $5,000 and your deductions were not more than 10 percent of your income.

You'll use form 1040-A or the 1040 short form. You don't have to figure your tax on these forms.

A tax table, used with both, gives the tax on all income under $5,000. And a deduction of about 10 percent already is allowed for in that tax.

So, in using those two forms, you don't have to claim or list your deductions. You get, automatically, a deduction of about 10 percent on income up to $5,000.

But suppose, although your income was under $5,000, your deductions actually amounted to more than 10 percent. Don't use form 1040-A or the 1040 short form. You'll lose money.

Instead, use the 1040 long form. There you'll have to figure your own tax and itemize all your deductions but you can claim your deductions in full. Any under-$5,000 person using the long form must itemize his deductions.

The picture is a little different for people with income of $5,000 or more. They have to use the long form anyway. They can't use form 1040-A or the 1040 short form.

And the rules for $5,000-or-more people using the long form are a little different from those for people with under-$5,000 income using that 1040 long form.

This is the score for people with $5,000 or more income using the long form:

A single person automatically gets -- without itemizing -- a deduction of 10 percent of his income up to a limit of $1,000 in deductions. He just takes that 10 percent, knocking that much off his income before applying the tax to what's left. Example:

Jones, single, had $5,500 income. His automatic deduction: $550. Smith, single, had $10,000. Automatic deduction: $1,000. As noted, no one gets more than $1,000 as a standard deduction. That's maximum.

Example: Brown, single, had $30,000. Automatic deduction: $1,000. If Brown's deductions actually ran to more than $1,000, he could claim them but he'd have to itemize.

The same goes for Jones and Smith. If Jones wanted to claim more than the standard $550 allowed him on his $5,500 income or Smith wanted to claim more than the standard $1,000 allowed him on his $10,000 income, he'd have to itemize.

Now take married people-- If a married couple's income was $5,000 or more and they file a joint return--even though the wife had no income--they get a standard deduction of 10 percent up to $1,000--just like the single man--without itemizing.

But if one of them files separately, or both do, there's a limit of $500 on the standard deduction for them.

Examples: Jones had $7,000 income, his wife none. Filing jointly, they get a standard 10 percent deduction of $700, without itemizing, whether or not their deduc-

1,876,766 Visit State Memorials

Fort Ancient Among Most Popular

A large number of Fayette Countians were among the 1,876,766 persons who visited the Ohio State Memorials and Ohio State Museum during the past year.

Of the total number, 97,014 visited the state museum and 1,719,752 visited one or more of the 54 state parks or memorials.

Ranking high among state memorials is Fort Ancient with 190,002, Schoenbrunn with 147,233, Newark Earthworks with 150,699 and George Rogers Clark Memorial with 245,304.

Attendance at the Ohio State museum shows slightly over 4,000 increase over 1949 and the State Memorials a reduction of 25,596. According to Erwin C. Zepp, director of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, this is probably due to severe weather conditions the latter part of the year plus construction work in several areas.

Attendance at some of the other memorials included: Campus Martius, Marietta, 67,050; Flint Ridge, 16,230; Fort Hill, 36,074; Glendower House, Lebanon, 5,492; Grant's Birthplace, 20,206; Leo Petroglyph, 19,240; Miamisburg Mound, 15,650; Rankin House, Ripley, 8,243; Seip Mound near Bainbridge, 37,500; Zoar Village, 34,075.

$55,162 Awarded To Ann Sheridan

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8—(AP)—Actress Ann Sheridan has been awarded $55,162.42 of the $350,000 she asked for RKO Studios for alleged breach of contract.

The suit stemmed from a row over her leading man for a picture. She wanted Franchot Tone and the studio refused. In the deadlock that followed RKO terminated her contract.

"I'm very happy," Miss Sheridan said as a federal court jury returned its verdict. "The jury acquitted me of running out on a contract, which I don't do."

Her actual deductions of the Jones or Smiths ran to more than the standard deduction allowed them, they could claim them in full. But then they'd have to itemize them.

But suppose this same Jones, with the $7,000 income and the wife who had none, files separately. In that case his standard deduction is only $500. If his deductions were really more than $500, he could claim them but he'd have to itemize.

That's the rule on married people: when a married person files separately, and his income was $5,000 or more, the maximum standard deduction he can get is $500, no matter how high his income.

When married couples file jointly, they get a standard deduction of 10 percent of their income up to a maximum deduction of $1,000. (Tomorrow: incomes, taxable and nontaxable, and various deductions.)

Home Nurse Courses To Start Here

Classes in home nursing and care of the sick will begin Friday Feb. 16 in the Fellowship Hall of the Grace Methodist Church.

Enrollment for the classes is now in progress, and any interested persons may enroll for the course by calling 2-2401 the Red Cross chapter house.

Two sessions will be held on Fridays. One will begin at 1 P. M. and last till 3 P. M. The evening class will start at 7 P. M. and last until 9 P. M.

Instructors for the classes will be Miss Gretchen Darlington, supervisor of county nurses, and Mrs. George Smith, a former public health nurse.

The course has recently been revised and streamlined to where it takes only six classes, or 12 hours, to complete. The study includes bed making and bed baths for patients, preparing food trays, selecting nutritious foods for the patients and the care of babies.

This course of study is helpful to the civilian defense work in

Mrs. George Parkin Speaker At WSCS Church Day

The regular session of the Women's Society of Christian Service was held at Grace Methodist Church Wednesday. Mrs. John B. York presided over the morning session in the absence of the president Mrs. C. L. Lewellen. The reading of the hymn, "Take Time To Be Holy" was followed with silent prayer and the praying of the Lord's Prayer in unison. The secretary and treasurer's reports were heard and accepted and the business session included the appointing of Mrs. Tom Stultz as leader of the circle, which was in charge of Miss Beulah Elliott a valued member recently deceased. Mrs. D. H. Rowe also accepted the Fellowship Club, to replace Mrs. Rose Hughey.

The society voted to contribute a substantial donation to the Heart Association fund. A $25 prize won recently by Mrs. D. H. Barchet was presented to the church by Mrs. Barchet. It will go toward the carpet fund.

Reports of the circle leaders followed.

The society also voted to give $100 to the Ohio Northern College, as a portion of the quota.

Mrs. Forrest Anders reported on the subscriptions to the "Methodist Woman" and "World Outlook".

After a short discussion by Rev. Allan W. Caley the meeting adjourned for the lunch hour. Mrs. Stephen Brown's circle was in charge of the serving.

The afternoon session in charge of Mrs. Ed Fite, program leader, opened with a piano prelude by Mrs. B. E. Kelley. Devotions were led by Mrs. Robert Meriweather, who read the Scripture from Acts and a Scripture story using the ninth and tenth chapters of St. Mark, pointing out personal ambition and selfish greed are the source of all evil.

Mrs. Fite read excerpts from "The Weather" by Jan Struther. The call to worship was taken from the book of St. Luke. Mrs. Fuller

Jefferson and Mrs. William Wheeler sang as duets, "Love Song", "Indian Dawn" and "From The Land of The Sky Blue Water", accompanied by Mrs. Charles Hise.

Mrs. Robert Minshall read "The Song of Hiawatha", preceding an interesting talk by Mrs. George Parkin of Wilmington, on "The American Indian". Mrs. Parkin spoke of the health and mistreatment of the American Indian. She named first the Waccaman Indians, who live on the islands off the coast at Bolton, North Carolina, in dense tropical swamps. In 1942 they built a four room school by their own efforts, she said.

A study of the Americans brought out the fact that on the Quila Reservation, an increase of 50,000 in the population during the last decade, with the heaviest population in Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. She also said millions of dollars were going to overseas aid with too little support to the American Indians, who need hospitals, education and sanitation supplies.

A number of unusual Indian relics, owned by Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Kelley, were displayed following Mrs. Parkin's interesting address. Mr. Kelley spoke interestingly of how the various types of artifacts were used. He said that evidence had been found which placed man in Fayette County upward of 50,000 years ago, and that some of the relics displayed probably were many thousands of years old.

At the close of Mr. Kelley's talk, prayer by Mrs. Arch Ribber closed the afternoon session.

Charles V. Sexton Speaks at Sorority Meet

Alpha Theta Chapter No. 538 of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Pat Mitchell for their regular meeting. Mrs. Sam Wilson, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Charles Virgil Sexton, civilian defense director, who presented a most interesting and informing speech. He said, "Each community must be not only able to aid themselves but also neighboring communities. Small, non-target areas must be able to help the larger cities which are apt to be bombed." He warned that the home folks should watch for sabotage and never start rumors as panic can kill more people than bombs.

Mrs. Mac Dews, Jr., president, conducted the short business session. Mrs. Charles Mallow, vice president, gave a report on the State Council Meeting, held January 28 in Zanesville. It was decided to sell tickets for chances on an Easter orchid corsage to help build the sorority's treasury, with Saturday, March 17th, as the drawing date.

Following the business session, the hosts served delicious refreshments with the valentine motif, assisted by Miss Ruth Engle, co-hostess. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Mallow.

Two Guests Included at Guild Meeting

Circle 5 Westminster Guild of First Presbyterian Church met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Logan Buzick, with sixteen members present.

Miss Jane Jefferson leader, presided over the business session and Mrs. Charles Reinke devotional leader read articles from the Upper Room. Mrs. Stanley Scott reported on the Midwinter Presbyterial held recently and the program in charge of Miss Jefferson, included a skit on "Stewardship" with Mrs. Cora Fennig, Miss Clara Davis, Mrs. Stanley Scott, Mrs. Edward Porter, Miss Marie Hughes, Miss Dorothy Donohoe, Miss Jane Jefferson and Miss Drusilla Rodgers. Later the members rolled bandages for mission hospitals. Mrs. Buzick and her assistant hostesses Miss Lelah Donohoe, Miss Marjorie Evans, Mrs. Carl Mallow, Mrs. Robert Parrett, Mrs. Fannie Smith, Mrs. Paul Van Voorhis, Miss Vera Veal and Mrs. George Worrell served tempting refreshments.

Guests included were Mrs. Ormond Dewey and Mrs. Blanche Boyer.

Guild Members Hold Meeting At Parrett Home

Circle 3 of Westminster Guild of First Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Samuel R. Parrett Wednesday afternoon with twenty members present.

Mrs. Herbert Clickner, leader, presided over the lengthy business session which included a report of the Midwinter Presbyterial held in Columbus recently. Mrs. W. O. Beatty was devotional leader and Mrs. C. D. Young presented a program on Stewardship and those taking part were Mrs. O. D. Farquhar, Mrs. Perse Harlow, Mrs. Harold Braden, Mrs. John Forsythe, Mrs. Carroll Halliday, Mrs. Lydia Donohoe and Mrs. Walter Thompson. During the social hour bandages were rolled for an overseas missionary hospital, over tempting refreshments served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Carroll Halliday, Mrs. Frank Wean and Mrs. Lydia Donohoe.

Personals

Mrs. Charles Schreiner, Mrs. Othol Wade, Mrs. Garrett Ramey, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Joe Fortier, and Mrs. Hashell Thompson made up a party to attend the Ruth Lyons Morning Matinee, and the Fifty Club, in Cincinnati, Tuesday.

Mr. Norman Armbrust, spent Wednesday in Columbus in the interest of the Fayette County's Children's Home.

Mrs. Louise Boyer was in Columbus Tuesday to attend the Spring Fashion Show at the Deshler Wallick Hotel. Mrs. Boyer is in charge of the Ready To Wear department at Montgomery Ward and Company here.

Garden Club Postpones Meeting

The Fayette Garden Club meeting scheduled to be held at the home of Miss Dorothy Gaut on Friday, February 9 has been postponed because of inclement weather.

Meeting Place Changed

The Leadership Training Class of the First Presbyterian Church previously scheduled to meet at the home of Mrs. Loren Noble on Thursday evening, February 8, will meet instead at the Church House on the same date at 7:30 P. M.

Cream-style corn makes a delicious chowder when it is mixed with canned tomatoes and flavored with onion, green pepper (if it is available), parsley, salt and freshly-ground pepper. Serve it for Friday lunch with pilot crackers.

THE EAGLES PARTY will not be held tonight on account of the weather. Adv.

Newcomers Club Party Attended By Forty Guests

The Newcomer's Club of Washington C. H. met Wednesday evening in the banquet room of the Hotel Washington with forty members present for a dessert bridge and canasta party. Mrs. Clyde Snodgrass welcomed the guests and a dainty dessert course was served at small tables which carried out a Valentine theme in the decorations lighted with white tapers. Mrs. Frank Krautwater a member of the committee for the planning of the party announced the slate of officers for the club, which resulted in Mrs. William Sell being chosen as president; Mrs. Clyde Snodgrass vice president and Mrs. Francis R. Doran as secretary-treasurer. During the short business session the fee for dues was decided upon and plans were made for regular meetings on the third Wednesday of each month at 8 P. M. The length of membership in the club was set at two years. Hostesses for the next party will be Mrs. Arthur Wohlers, chairman, Mrs. Jack Coffey, Mrs.

Robert H. Green, Mrs. Robert Cusard and Mrs. John White. A board of advisors chosen were introduced as follows: Mrs. Roy Plymale, Mrs. Mac Dews Sr., Mrs. Clarence McCarley, Mrs. Ben F. Norris, Mrs. Lowell Miller, Mrs. Kenneth Dillon and Mrs. Joe Peters. The party hostesses, Mrs. Neil Hercules, Mrs. Frank Krautwater, Mrs. John Bath, Mrs. Harry Townsend and Mrs. Carl Easterling were also introduced. In the progressive game four tables of bridge and five of canasta were at play and awards in the bridge game went to Mrs. William Fink, and Mrs. Robert Parrish in canasta.

Poet's Corner

THE PASSWORD

An angel stood at the golden gate
For the password there to the high estate.
"I am a Presbyterian, said one.
"My church on earth has its work well done."

The angel said, "I am sorry to say
That over your name there will be delay
The name you have named I cannot find
Please make way for the man behind."

"And what is your password, friend," he said
"I am a Methodist, born and bred."
"The Methodist name is not in the book,
Here it is, for yourself you can look."

To the question asked by the angel there,
Another said, "I have wrought with care
I am a Baptist thru and thru
To the Testament church I have been true."

The angel said, "I am sorry,
friend,
But the Baptist's name has not been penned.
Perhaps to you the name is clear,
But the name you named is not known here."

"What is your name?" he said to another.
"I am a faithful U. B. Brother."
"The U. B. name may be good on earth,
But at this gate is has no worth,"

"I belong to the Lutheran crowd,"
Said another man, as he stopped and bowed.
"Your name is one that I don't recall,
And it's not the password after all."

Another said at the gate of gold,
"Episcopal is the name I hold,"
And she started to pass thru the open gate,
But the angel said, "you will have to wait."

"Your name like the others I do not see
Such names as these mean nothing to me.
There is a password for you all
And by that word you stand or fall."

So one by one they came to the gate,
Seeking a home and a high estate:
One by one were the seats arrayed,
There at the gate in a vain parade.

At last the angel spoke to the throne,
"These names on earth alone belong
But the password here if you enter in,
Is the blood of Christ, cleansed
from sin."

"So here to these names you must bid adieu
And all of the company may pass thru."

Then they said, "The Blood, it has cleansed from sin."
And the saved and the ransomed entered in.

There is one church in Heaven
above,
Its password, Christ, and its service
love,
Names are the passwords of an hour
They are fruitless works if they have no power.
If they bind not men by the will
above
in the brotherhood of the Father's love:
If they do not journey one with another
Heart to heart and the soul of a brother.

If they find no center that has suffered
In the family circles of Jesus Christ,
For many the Creeds, like weeds
in the sod,
And many the temples ---- but only ONE GOD.

B&PW Club Puts Up Signs Here

To Be of Principal
Use to Motorists

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club have taken steps to call the attention of motorists passing through Washington C. H., to the fact that there is a B&PW Club here.

Attractive signs, on which there appears the official B&PW emblem, have been erected at the two approaches of the CCC Highway to Washington C. H.

One of the signs is located not far from Memorial Hospital, while the other is near the Anderson Drive-In.

Miss Norma Dodd, president of the club here, said that there are few of the signs in Ohio but many in the West.

She said the club members were hopeful of indicating when they would meet, but she said there is not definite date each month. The club here meets on either the first or third Tuesday night of each month, when the Lions Club is not using the Washington C. H. Country Club.

The signs are set on top of 4 by 4 posts. They are of metal construction.

The emblems feature a torch, wand, ship, scroll and nuke (or winged victory) in a circle.

The torch is symbolic of the B&PW education program while the winged wand heralds the opportunities and equality which the club is gaining. The latter is a symbol of the health program.

The ship is the emblem of progress. It typifies the entrance of women into business.

The scroll is indicative of achievement and is a symbol of publicity and public relations.

Nike, the winged victory, expresses the feeling of strength and endurance and symbolizes the entire federation's principles.

The circle symbolizes the aim of the federation to achieve security and lasting peace.

"The Ephemeris", a government-published guide to the sun and several stars, is issued annually.

Russian 'Peace' Is Compulsory

Tough Law Planned
To Shut Out West

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
MOSCOW, Feb. 8—(AP)—Foreign observers here consider it virtually certain that the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. when it next meets will pass a law for "the protection of peace."

This law would be much the same as those passed in Hungary and East Germany, providing the toughest of penalties for the "dissemination of war propaganda."

(The East German Communist government adopted a law providing the death penalty for "offenders against the peace"—anybody supporting the policies of the West as against those of the U.S.S.R. Subject to prosecution, among others, are those who "make contemptuous the movement for the preservation of peace or stir hate against participants in the fight for peace." This could be extended to almost anybody opposing Communist views.

(This dispatch from Moscow passed through stringent Soviet censorship, and thus the prediction that such a law will be passed is given added weight. The fact that such a law would be deemed necessary in the Soviet Union—which, only a year ago reestablished the death penalty "for crimes against the state"—gives rise to speculation that the Soviet rulers think the time near when it will be necessary to crack down on certain elements within Soviet Russia's own borders.)

The lead editorial in the last issue of the Literary Gazette praised to the skies the laws for the protection of peace already passed in Hungary and the (Communist) German Democratic Republic. The editorial said:

"Expressing the hopes of millions of men of good will, the Second World Congress of Peace Partisans (at Warsaw, Poland) recognized as necessary the prohibition of propaganda for a new war; the prohibition of any forms of ideological work directed at the preparation of war, the justification of aggression or the use of force in the solution of conflicts between peoples."

The magazine said that "the passage of laws for the defense of peace met the unanimous support and general approval of the broadest masses of people," and added, "laws on the defense of peace, establishing punishment for war propaganda as a crime, are a new warning to warmongers."

It is not clear what the practical consequences of such a law might be here in the Soviet Union. It is obvious that the Soviet press and Soviet leaders in their public utterances, express only the most extreme abhorrence for war.

Banners Presented to Schools Here Tell Lesson in Democracy

Pupils in the city and county schools will daily have a message of democracy to give thoughtful attention to through the efforts of Don Scholl, Kaiser-Frazer and Allis Chalmers dealer in Washington C. H.

Banners bearing the timely and striking slogan, "Let's Count All Our Blessings and Thank God We're Americans," will be hung in both the city and county schools.

The banners were presented to the city and county schools Tuesday by Scholl.

Scholl, recognizing the value and timely message on the banners, gave 20 of them to the schools. They will be hung in auditoriums and other conspicuous places in the schools.

Each of the banners features the lettering of the slogan in red and blue color, effectively imposed through a silk screen process upon a background of bridal satin, with a tassel, rod and spear head at the top of the banner and fringe at the bottom.

Everett Adams, representatives of the Hollywood Advertising Co., originators of the idea, said the city and county schools officials approved the idea 100 per cent. They pointed out that the banner's slogan is not only timely, but that it will leave a lasting impression upon the minds of growing Americans.

The Washington C. H. and Fayette County school buildings are among the first in Ohio where the banners are being displayed.

War Bond Extension Measure Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(P)—A bill to permit holders of Series E government bonds to keep them for more than 10 years and continue to draw interest was passed yesterday by the House.

Passage was by voice vote. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Series E bonds are in small denominations, and are those generally held by the public. Some $33,000,000,000 worth are outstanding.

The first of the outstanding series will start maturing May 1, ten years after issuance. The interest averages 2.9 percent if the bonds are held for ten years.

The present legislation would allow holders to keep the bonds after their maturity date. They would continue to draw interest.

Truck-Auto Crash

TOLEDO, Feb. 8—(P)—A truck-auto collision five miles east of here yesterday killed Elston A. Bender, 39, of Oak Harbor, O. Police said Bender's auto struck the rear of a truck about to turn off state Route 2. The car then spun off the truck and into the path of another auto coming in the opposite direction.

Employers Ready To Replace Men Caught in Draft

Most Going Easy On Requests for Deferment Now

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(P)—If you are draft bait, or a reservist, or a National Guardsman sweating out a call to service, like as not your employer has you on his mind.

And if he considers you an essential cog in the company machine, chances are he has already worked out plans for seeking your deferment—or for replacing you. A well-considered, well-administered plan sometimes can make all the difference.

Many companies have such programs well under way, already know what men they are in danger of losing, and can act quickly when an employee is called up. Some report that this forehandness has shown good results in getting deferments of key men, so that their company's operations are not hamstrung.

But most say they are using this sparingly so far, preferring not to wear out their welcome with draft boards and the military at this stage. They'd rather wait until large scale inductions begin and the manpower situation gets really tight.

One Company's Advice

One company advises its subsidiaries: "Make the deferment procedure as difficult now as possible; save your ammunition until the higher age brackets are seriously hit."

Deciding just which employee's deferment should be asked calls for judgment and planning, companies with formal programs tell the national industrial conference board. These companies question all male employees to find out which ones may be tapped for military service, and they keep these records up to date, watching both the employee's status and the military's developing plans for calling up men.

Then the companies study the jobs that the candidates for uniforms now hold—decide who can be easily replaced, and for whom successors can be readily trained.

When they've winnowed the employees down to the really essential ones, they must decide if they can prove it is for the "nation's health, safety or interest" that these men be kept at work.

Some Company Policies

Here's how some companies are handling the mechanics of the problem: All stress that they make absolutely sure first that the man is essential and cannot be replaced.

General Electric requires that all deferment requests be cleared through GE's corporate affairs department. It regards centralization as a necessity, and wants as few individual company representatives as possible to be involved in contacting the military on deferment requests. And it lays down the rule:

"Be honest, rigidly honest; suspicions that the company is trying to hoard manpower can eliminate any adequate consideration of deferment requests submitted in the future."

Ford Motor Co. uses a state plan for handling deferments, rather than strict centralization. In each state in which it has activities -- which includes most of them -- there is a state department coordinator. Ford says: "In view of the very short notice some reservists are getting, state coordination seems the best possible compromise." Handling everything at the home plant would take too long.

Detroit Edison Co. uses a 10-man deferment committee to screen all requests. It sees as advantages: The plan allows all departments to know both the company's and the nation's manpower problems, and makes for broader and more effective consideration of occupational deferments.

Ready for Action

York Corporation, which makes air-conditioning and refrigeration units at York, Pa., routes all deferment requests through the industrial relations manager. It draws up the request letter in advance for quick handling when the essential employee is called.

Companies have found that in the case of some reservists, even a 48-hour delay can make a big difference.

P. H. Hood and Sons, distributors of mill and dairy products in New England, makes few deferment requests, and only after finding it impossible to replace the man—even looking into the chances of using a woman in his place. One Hood executive says every company will have to find for itself the fine line between proper protection of its labor supply, and "the adverse public relations that might result under certain circumstances from wholesale request for deferments."

Trans-World Airlines has made few deferment requests yet and will ask "only for the length of time necessary to train and qualify replacements."

Most of the companies advise that deferments be asked only when the employee himself wants it.

Lenton Observance Causes Death to 31

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 8—(P)—This capital's three days of carnival merrymaking in advance of the Lenten season has resulted in the deaths of 31 persons and injury to more than 4,500. Meridional News Agency reported today.

The agency said most of the deaths were from traffic mishaps during the traditional carnival festivities.

The population of the United States increased by 2,500,000 in 1950.

Assist Is Given St. Valentine By Mars---Business Benefits

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(P)—Love is sweeping the country again. War is always a good heart stimulant and merchants are counting heavily on Mars giving St. Valentine a helping hand. It'll help their cash registers, too.
There's a strong drive under way this year to make February 14 another day for exchanging gifts. What merchants did for mom on Mother's Day, they ought to be able to do for love, they figure.

Love and affection may run into many million dollars in sales by next Wednesday. The old tried and true Valentine cards, candy and flowers are still going strong. The greeting card industry estimates that 300 million Valentines will be exchanged.

But Valentine's Day isn't the simple thing it used to be. Now one industry or another wants you to call it "Kiss Day" or "Valentine Day."

Necktie Business
The necktie makers hope that 47 million ties will be bought by adoring females for men they love. In fact, men are getting quite a share of the attention. Women are urged to buy them shirts wrapped as Valentines, or cigars, or gloves. And the jewelers have come out with a lover's-knot design for men's tie clips, cuff links and collar pins, as well as name-plate bracelets for servicemen or sailors.
The handkerchief crowd has imported a number of decorated with an old-fashioned Valentine as the ideal gift for the snuffle set.

Dolls and games, are suggested for the kiddies.

As for the ladies, you can buy a slip or nightie trimmed with rhinestones, or a bejeweled bra—and even one made of leopard skin. Ads implore you to remember her with perfume, lipstick, or a package of sachet she can tuck in her hair. And one shop thinks antiques make ducky Valentines.
February 14 comes right smack in the middle of National Heart Week (bachelors will be reassured to know that it's also National Security Week). National Cherry Week gets a headstart for Washington's birthday. And it'll be a National Sew and Save Week, too. But for most businessmen the emphasis will be on the good Saint's Day itself -- with gift selections in greater volume this year than ever and only slightly higher priced.

Call It 'Kiss Day'
If you call it "Kiss Day", you'll please the tissue makers, who have teamed up with a greeting card company to put out a "tissue-kiss" Valentine card containing an example of their product for removing lipstick traces after the Valentine kiss the card scoldis.
The Men's Tie Foundation, Inc., is plugging for Valentine's Day, naturally. It says 85 percent of the ties will be bought by women and contents that neckwear sales for February rose 93 percent from 1947 to 1950 just because women like to tie something on their men. Retail neckwear sales totaled 191 million ties, or $200 million, in the entire year of 1950, while ten years ago sales were only $77 million.

The jewelry industry council reports that this year there is more heart-shaped jewelry than ever before, possible because war threats make people think about marriage. Valentine suggests include "heart-shaped pins paved with rhinestones and centered with a pair of golden caseament windows flung open to reveal what is inside the heart." If shaped locket (holding your picture, you hope) or a heart-shaped watch for her lapel to help her be on time for the date.

Altogether it's going to be an exciting week. The following week you'll be observing Brotherhood Week. But you have to wait another month to get really back in stride again -- Honey for Breakfast Week.

the combined land and air forces on the continent, with an American admiral as top commander.

Admiral William M. Fechteler, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, probably will be named soon to head the supreme Allied command organization for the north Atlantic Ocean region, it was learned today.

Although the north Atlantic region command is part of the overall pattern of common defense for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries on both sides of the ocean, it apparently is not intended to be subordinate to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western European forces but to have something like co-equal status.

Capt. Knight To Be Rotary Ann Entertainer

English Humorist To Be Speaker at Annual Rotary Event

The program committee for the Rotary Ann dinner party to be held at 6:30 P. M. Wednesday, February 14 at the Country Club, has announced an unusual featured entertainer for that event.

Capt. C. W. R. Knight

Capt. C. W. R. Knight, a noted English humorist who has appeared in many countries and has attained an enviable reputation, has been engaged. The committee has gone to considerable expense to obtain this prominent speaker, and it is expected that this Rotary Ann dinner will be one of the best attended events in the club's history here.

Lowell Thomas, speaking of Capt. Knight states "it has seemed to me that a lecturer's first duty is to provide high class entertainment, and Captain Knight does this right up to the hilt."

One noted critic is reported as saying "there is plenty of reason why this lovable, genial naturalist-photographer should be called the most entertaining man on the public platform. He makes his hearers forget that they have come to a lecture. He puts on such a bully good show that his audiences are kept in roars of laughter from start to finish."

Another is quoted as saying, "Any one who says the English have no sense of humor has not stacked up against Charles Knight. He is humor personified."

In addition to this entertainer the Rotary committee in charge of this event promises not only a fine dinner but other good program features including some very desirable favors for the ladies present.

Per-patient Cost Shows Reduction

Cost per-patient during the last quarter of 1950 was reduced somewhat at the Mt. Logan Sanatorium in Chillicothe.

The cost per-day per-patient was $5.33 compared with $6.45 for the preceding quarter.

This was shown in the report filed with the joint boards of county commissioners at a recent

Suggestions Made on First Aid Supplies for Medicine Cabinets

Through the compliments of the committee on state health, Ohio State Medical Association, several suggestions on what type of first aid supplies should be kept in medicine cabinets have been offered to residents of Fayette County.

The suggestions, published by the American Medical Association, are listed below: (Clip this for future reference).

First Aid Supplies and How To Use Them

Suggested Supplies	What They Are For
Tincture of green soap.	Washing injured parts.
Hospital cotton, roll.	Large soft pads or dressings.
Absorbent cotton, sterilized, roll, box or "picking" package.	Swabs or pledgets for applying medication or wiping wounds.
Dressings, small pads, sterilized, in individual transparent envelopes.	For protecting small injuries.
Dressings, finger, in envelopes.	For protecting very small injuries.
Adhesive tape, roll, one inch.	Fastening dressings or splints.
Scissors, bandage or blunt.	Cutting dressings.
Toothpicks.	For making swabs.
Alcohol, 70% (water 30%) or rubbing alcohol.	Disinfecting skin and minor wounds.
Iodine, tincture (dilute with equal volume of water just before using).	Disinfecting wounds which appear to be dirty; do not use on wet skin or on mucous membranes, on face or near sex organs; do not cover with dressings.
Other disinfectant, if ordered by physician.	As ordered by physician.
Mineral oil, bottle, or Petroleum jelly, tube or jar, white or yellow, but not medicated.	For removing ointments; for lubricating enema points; in eye to relieve irritation from foreign body; for burns if no other ointment is at hand.
Boric acid ointment U.S.P.	For minor burns.
Boric acid solution, pint bottle with excess of crystals in bottom.	For cleansing wounds and removing dressings which have stuck.
Epsom salts.	In hot water, a handful to a basin, for soaking sprains, bruises, or infection, when ordered by a doctor.
Baking soda, powder.	Teaspoonful to a pint of warm water, for mouthwash, or gargle if ordered.
Salt, crystal or tablets.	Same as baking soda, or with baking soda, as directed. Also in same proportion for enema when ordered.
Enema and douche bag.	Use only when ordered; enema or douche habit is not recommended.
Hot water bottle with cover.	Local relief of pain.
Ice bag.	Local relief of pain.
Tourniquet (three feet of soft rubber tubing and a stick or pencil).	Use ABOVE place from where red blood spurts. Call doctor at once. Release every 15 minutes to allow circulation to reach parts, then reapply.
Eye droppers.	Cleanse after using and boil before using or rinse with alcohol followed by boric acid solution.
Ear Syringe, soft rubber	For baby's enemas; for adult ears only when ordered by physician.
Graduated Medicine Glass.	For measuring liquid medicines.
Drugs for internal use.	Only when ordered by physician and as directed by him.

meeting, Miss Vesta E. Yapple, secretary-treasurer, filed the report.

Total expenditures for the 7,047 patient days was $37,626.33, compared with $45,106.03 for the previous quarter.

Amounts due at the end of the quarter were Adams, $376.22; Fayette $2,297.41; Highland, $3,232.83; Jackson $9,566; Pike, $3,707.22; Ross $4,703.12; Scioto, $21,984.11.

Gambling Casino In Ohio Is Closed

DAYTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—The plush Oak Grove Country Club near here, cited by Gov. Frank J. Lausche as a gambling casino, was out of business today.

Said Pete Irwin, self-styled manager:

"We're closed for good. We're surrendering our charter. The place is up for sale. I'm going on a vacation."

Last month Gov. Lausche cited the club before the Kefauver Senate crime investigating committee hearing in Cleveland.

Townships To Get Fire Aid

Perry Included in Greenfield Contract

Greenfield council has entered into an agreement with three townships surrounding that town for fire protection.

The contract is with the trustees of Perry Township in Fayette County, Madison Township in Highland County and Bucks Township in Ross County.

Discussion on the contracts had been under way for sometime, and final action was taken at a meeting of the Greenfield Council this week.

All contracts are for three years, and Madison Township is to pay $100 a month; Perry $50 a month, and Bucks Township $60 a month.

The town will immediately order a commercial chassis equipped with a 500 gallon water tank and other apparatus for fighting rural fires as well as to augment the equipment already on hand for use in the town.

The equipment will be housed at the engine house in Greenfield and will be manned with an engineer-driver and three volunteer firemen.

The funds received are to be for upkeep of the equipment.

Councilman Daniels objected to the small amount of the cost on the grounds that it was inadequate considering amount of the investment and housing.

Under terms of the contract the town is to supply protection with present equipment until the new truck is ready.

Unusual Number of Stray Dogs Here

The county dog warden has some real work ahead of him if he picks up the unusually large number of stray dogs which have been roaming the streets of the city recently.

Police have noted the unusual number, and have picked up a few to be turned over to the dog warden.

It seems that most of the dogs which are running at large frequently appearing in numbers in uptown area are without collars and tags.

Complaints of stray dogs may be made to the County Dog Warden Otis Bonecutter.

Gov. Warren Sick

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8—(AP)—Gov. Earl Warren is hospitalized with an acute pain in his right arm—possibly bursitis, neurologists said today.

The pain followed a severe cold the 59-year-old Republican suffered last week.

A COLORFUL ROMANTIC PICTURE, "Pagan Love Song," has been booked for the Fayette Theater for three days, starting Sunday, Esther Williams and Howard Keel team up in this M-G-M musical that has the exotic Tahiti background for the songs by Harry Warren and Arthur Freed.

County PTA Council Meeting Cancelled

The County PTA Council is not going to have a February meeting.

The officers just got so discouraged with the weather that they decided to call it off.

The next meeting will be the regular March meeting, the second Wednesday of the month, Mrs. George Trimmer, the council president said in announcing the cancellation.

The council is made up of the officers of all the PTA, PTO and Community Circles of the county schools.

The regular monthly meetings are held in the office of the superintendent of the county schools in the Court House.

Usually, Mrs. Trimmer said, the sessions are devoted to hearing reports on activities of the individual units. Any council programs or projects are planned at the sessions, too.

Mrs. Trimmer said that before the February meeting was called off, a check had been made by the council officers to make certain there was nothing to be brought up that could not be deferred.

Weather Again Cuts Crowd At Junior Cage Tourney Here

A couple of hundred spectators saw eight junior high school teams scamper down court and back Wednesday evening in the second round of the junior high school tournament in the Washington C. H. High School gym.

A scrappy little Greenfield team surprised the Hillsboro Papooses in the opening game of the evening when they pulled a 36 to 27 win out of the fire in the second half.

Greenfield's boys seemed to be having a rough time in the first half. The Papooses were ahead 8 to 5 at the end of the first quarter and 13 to 19 at halftime.

It was a different story in the remaining two quarters as the Greenfielders started to pull out. They led 27 to 22 at the end of the third frame and finishing with a nine point margin.

Purdin was the spark for the winning McClain team with 14 tallies. Cole was close behind him on the Hillsboro squad as he racked up 11 points for the losers.

DiMaggio and Kell Both Sign Contracts

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, the million dollar center fielder of the New York Yankees, and George Kell, brilliant third baseman of the Detroit Tigers, have signed their 1951 contracts, but some of baseball's stars remain out of the fold.

DiMaggio accepted his third straight $100,000 contract via telephone from his San Francisco home yesterday. Kell, after turning down two proposals, came into the fold at Detroit for an estimated $40,000, a $7,000 hike over his 1950 salary. Kell is the highest paid Tiger player.

The capitulation of DiMaggio leaves only Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals among the upper bracket players unsigned.

No Top Favorites In Texas Open Golf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 8—(AP)—There wasn't a top favorite in the whole carload today as golf's tourists fired the first round of the $10,000 Texas Open on two courses.

A field of 270—182 of them professionals—sought the gold and glory of the oldest tournament on the winter trail with veteran observers predicting a "putting contest."

Defending champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, the year's leading money-winner, aren't playing. Both are temporarily out of golf with injuries.

working but outclassed Madison Mills squad in the second game of the evening.

Although the junior Millers were able to keep within three points of the Atlanta boys in the first frame, the Atlanta boys started to pour it on in the second quarter and held a 25 to 10 lead at the intermission.

Harold Gerhardt of the Atlanta team was the hot shot of the game as his mates fed him the ball for 11 baskets and two free throws. Bill Williams was the high pointer for the Millers with 10 points.

PROBABLY THE fastest and most hard fought game of the evening saw Cedarville lose out in the final minute of play to the juniors from Jamestown, 24 to 23. Jamestown had an uphill fight all the way. They trailed 9 to 3 at the end of the first quarter and were still behind, 11 to 8, when the halftime buzzer sounded.

In the third quarter the Jamestowners trailed by a four point, 20 to 16, margin, but as the game started to pull to a close the little Jamestown squad settled down and was able to even the score at 23-all with less than two minutes to go. With less than a minute left Cedarville committed a foul which gave the Jamestowners their one point lead as the game ended.

Elza Litteral of the Cedarville squad gathered in 13 points to lead the scoring, while James and Edwards got seven each for the winners.

WASHINGTON C. H.'s Lion Cubs pulled away steadily from a fast little Mt. Sterling team and wound up with a 45 to 22 win for the evening's finale.

The Cubs led the Mt. Sterling team by a two point margin, 8 to 6, score at the end of the opening quarter and by an 18 to 10 score at the halftime.

In the third quarter the fast breaking Cub squad piled up 23 points to lead 41 to 15. In the fourth quarter Coach Fred Pierson sent in the Cub reserves who were held to four tallies when the final buzzer sounded.

Fear Wildlife Toll in State Is Very Heavy

The severe ice and snow blizzard which swept through Ohio the past week, has wildlife division officials fearful that a terrific toll has been exacted on the state's wildlife, including Fayette County.

The damage is feared so extensive, that it is highly probable hunting in the Buckeye state next fall could be affected considerably.

Dr. Charles A. Dambach, chief of the wildlife division, in describing the effect of the second "big snow" said, "the state's wildlife has undoubtedly taken a terrible beating the last few days, and it will probably take an exceptional nesting season next spring for the game to recover."

Although heavy snow hampers wildlife in their quest for food, it is the most serious bugaboo, and wildlife officials are of the opinion that the heavy ice sheet which covered the state the past week has "starved out" uncountable numbers of Ohio's game. It is felt that the game birds particularly quail, have been the most severely hit.

It was with this in mind that Dambach issued his second voluntary feeding appeal to the farmers and landowners. "These individuals are the answer if a good brood stock is to survive this critical wildlife emergency," Dambach said.

He urged the farmers and landowners to place scratch feed where birds can reach it.

OSU Coach Hunt Now Nears Climax

COLUMBUS, Feb. 8—(AP)—If anyone knows today who will be recommended for the head football coaching job at Ohio State University, he isn't saying.

The university screening committee held another meeting yesterday to talk over results of interviews with six prospects. But members declined to comment on their session. They held a similar meeting Monday.

Sid Gillman, University of Cincinnati coach, will be interviewed Saturday. Indications are his will be the last.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD".

River's Rim
by Jane Abbott

Just prior to the War of 1812, pioneer Quint Darby and his wife, Rhoda, settled on the Niagara River across from Canada. Here they prospered and made friends, but socially ambitious Rhoda is unhappy. Her nagging tyranny kills what love there was between them and Quint turns to the art of building merchant ships. He is kept informed as to the Mohawk tribe's activities across the river, by a handsome young half-breed brave, Peter Brant.

CHAPTER THREE

THE DOOR opened, and Becky put her head through. Her face, so recently full of terror, was pink now with excitement. "Mr. Darby! It's great folks come!"

Great folks did not often come to the Ferry Tavern; usually they stopped at Hodge's. Quint followed Becky to the door.

"See?" Becky whispered. Over the shoulders of the men in the doorway, Quint saw a galley-shaped wagon, its white hempen cover stretched tight over arching hoops, the body of it a bright blue as well as the wheels, where they were not coated with mud. The harnesses of its four horses gleamed with silver and on the lead horse sat a driver in buff livery. A young man on a fifth horse was engaged in quieting his mount. An older man, elegantly attired, was approaching the tavern. Near the door he lifted his head and sent a cold glance over the group standing in open-mouthed curiosity at this splendor before them.

"I am told by Mr. Hodge that I will find Quint Darby here. Which of you is he?"

Quint knew the voice. But utter surprise held him still for a moment, then he pushed a way through the men in front of him. "Alec! I didn't know you at once!"

"It's been a considerable time." The newcomer shook the hand Quint had offered him. "You have altered, too. I doubt I would have known you." His eyes went to the empty sleeve of Quint's coat.

"Lost it fighting Little Turtle at Fallen Timbers," said Quint, a deliberate note of pride in his voice. "But let us go in where we can talk. The young man yonder?"

"My son, Richard." "Of course—he would be grown. Now a good mount is on. Toby, inform the young gentleman where we are. Men, this is my brother, Alec Darby from Connecticut State."

Alec Darby inclined his head a very little as he passed into the tavern.

"This way, Alec. We've our own living quarters in back." Quint always had taken pride in the room to which he now led his brother. He considered it most pleasant, even luxurious, as luxury was known on the frontier. Muslin curtains hung at the windows, to bright woven rugs covered the floor, the oak of chairs and tables was polished to a mellow glow. In one corner stood a piano which Quint had bought for Rhoda from a family going through to the west and needing money. Rhoda did not know how to play it but she was proud to have it.

But now Alec's slow glance over the room made everything in it, even the piano, seem crude. And Quint saw it all in sorry contrast to the fine furnishings of the drawing-room in the Connecticut house in which he and Alec had grown up.

Quint studied his brother. He had aged, beyond his years—seemed grown in on himself. But he had lost nothing of the arrogant bearing Quint remembered.

"You've come from Greenlands?"

"Alec turned, sat down in a chair. "Greenlands is sold."

"Quint was startled, aware, too, of a deep pang of sadness. He cherished memories of the great white house, of the lands deeded to their father's father by the Crown.

"I cannot imagine..." he had begun when Alec continued, "You would find the environs of Greenlands very different now. Too settled for my liking. The estate was left to me by my father's will and when a purchaser came, a new-rich Yankee from Boston, I sold it."

A bitterness in his voice suggested more of the truth than his words, that Alec had hung onto his Tory loyalties and the community had frozen him out.

"Your plans now are to travel some, then live in New York?"

There was the banking house which their father had founded before the War of Independence, in which Alec had been well established at the time Quint broke with the family. His father had had a place for him, too, in it, but he would have none of it. It had to do mostly with brokering the rich cargoes brought into the New York port from the Orient, and without doubt the troubles on the high seas these last many months had disrupted it considerably, but even so Quint could not think of Alec's parting with it.

Alec said, "I have sold the business. It was no longer a gentleman's business." He brushed his hands, palm against palm, as if to rid himself of the unpleasant dust of that former occupation. "I wish to live the rest of my years in peace with my traditions. I am on my way to Newark in Canada. I have had letters from Jonathan Storer, a good friend, formerly of Philadelphia, and now living in Newark, urging me to settle there, painting it as a most pleasant community. You may not know—Annette died, five years ago. Jenet, my daughter, has finished her schooling, Richard has studied law. It seemed the logical time to make the change. I was advised to cross into Canada from Black Rock here. You can imagine my surprise when my host at the other tavern told me you were in charge of the ferry. I had not credited you with settling down to even so much enterprise!"

The old Alec, reflected Quint. "A man reaches an age when he sees it wise to stay in one place. Is Jenet with you?"

"She is at Hodge's with a companion I brought along for her. They are both exceedingly weary from the roughness of the journey. I am leaving them there at the Hodge's until Richard and I have found dwelling in Newark. Mr. Hodge was recommended to me as a gentleman of high character and we find the lodging there most comfortable, so I feel no disquiet at leaving Jenet behind. It will not be for long."

"Richard came in. 'Ha, here you are!' He looked at Quint interestedly, though with a slight condescension. 'My uncle, I'm told!'

He was like his father as Quint remembered Alec at that age. Medium of height, pale of coloring, cold blue eyes set close under a jutting forehead. His riding clothes were of the elegance of his father's; he had his father's arrogant bearing. Quint found it difficult to smother a hearty dislike on the instant for the youth.

He was glancing over the room as his father had. "You're set up surprisingly well! I fancied everything in these wilds would be most primitive. I've been watching your ferry land—is it so that we can safely get our wagon over it into Canada?"

"It's carried heavier loads than the wagon," answered Quint. "Amazing! When, sire, do we embark on this adventure? I confess to an eagerness to get on with it."

"An insufferable young coxcomb," thought Quint, eager himself for them both to get on with it and away.

"This afternoon, if it can be arranged," Alec Darby looked at Quint and Quint nodded his head. "I've a letter to present to Captain Seely at Fort Erie, who will send a courier with us on to Newark. We need only to return to Hodge's and bid your sister and Miss Southwaite goodbye." He rose from his chair. "A very curious turn of fate, that you and I will, in a way, be neighbors. Only the river and some miles of land between us."

"Much more than that," thought Quint dryly, but when he spoke he summoned to his voice the amiability his brother had shown.

"When you come to these parts you must accept our hospitality. We can lodge you as comfortably as Mr. Hodge. And stay a moment longer, that I may present my wife to you..."

"Ah, so you're married, as well as settled down!"

Dairy Service Unit Meeting Attracts 45

Association Program
For Year Outlined
By E. J. Cunningham

Forty-five dairymen and their wives braved the icy roads to attend the annual Fayette County Dairy Association meeting Wednesday night, held in the Farm Bureau auditorium, Rex Bloomer, president of the dairy association, presided. Mrs. Dale Smith gave the secretary-treasurer's report.

E. J. Cunningham, chairman of the dairy association program planning committee, presented an outline of the program to be followed by the dairy association for the coming year. The program outlined by Cunningham was as follows:

The association intends to support an improved herd health program with emphasis on brucellosis control.

Continued promotion of better breeding and herd production testing.

To promote and hold a sale of registered and good-grade heifers through the artificial breeding program.

Carry on the annual dairy and land improvement tour with maximum cooperation with better farming and better land use programs.

Prepare and mail a monthly dairy information bulletin to Fayette County dairymen.

Due to the rapidly changing dairy marketing situation, the association intends to take a more active interest in this field.

TB Tests Explained

W. W. Montgomery, county agent, explained the present plans for the TB testing program to begin in the county the latter part of this month.

Dale Wilson, chairman of the evening's program, introduced Dale Smith, dairy technician, who reported on the program of artificial breeding. Smith reported that the present membership is 230 farms, which is an increase of 45 over last year. There were 851 first services.

Ray Booco of Jefferson Township has the first artificially bred heifer in production in the county. Smith emphasized the need for full cooperation by all members in this important program.

Richard Brown, dairy testing supervisor, reported on the progress of this work which was started in the county this past year. At the present there are 216 cows on DHIA and 20 on owner sampler testing. The average milk production of the cows under production testing records is 7,100 pounds of milk and 320 pounds of butter fat. Brown indicated that the good dairymen are feeding good legume mixtures.

Richard Kellogg, manager of the Central Ohio Breeding Association, gave a report on the work in his association. Kellogg emphasized the importance of feeding top quality legumes to putting cattle on excellent pasture for best results.

C. D. McGrew, extension dairyman at Ohio State University, gave an interesting discussion on the importance of good dairy management. McGrew pointed out that one thing that seemed to be common among all good dairymen was the fact that they all used good roughages. Emphasis was placed on proper pasture and field application of fertilizer and lime.

Other important factors relative to good dairymen are having Bangs free herd, use of a silo, and high productivity of the soil. McGrew also pointed out that dairymen need to carefully watch heat periods in dairy cattle for maximum results.

A movie entitled, "The Telephone Hour," was shown through the courtesy of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rex Bloomer, Mrs. Dale

Clothing Prices

dicted the cost of living will continue to rise for a few more months and then level off by midsummer.

OPS officials also hope to lower prices in some cases by rolling back the size of margins to a selected date.

OPS Director Michael V. DiSalle said in a radio interview broadcast last night the OPS would "somehow attempt" to fix margins as they existed before the Korean outbreak last June, and he thought maybe there would be "astonishing" results in some industries.

But this didn't amount to a definite promise to roll back any margins to pre-Korean levels, and the question is still under debate. Moreover DiSalle apparently was talking about later orders—not the one about to be issued on clothing and house furnishings.

Meanwhile DiSalle and Johnston had their staffs busy preparing reports on food prices for Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Wilson asked for the reports yesterday. He was described as being "very concerned" over food prices. He was also reported planning to recommend some changes in the defense production act to permit tighter controls on food prices.

Officials predict, too, that President Truman may send a message to Congress on the same subject about Feb. 15.

Collector Gives Taxpayers Tip

McRoan Urges Prompt
Filing To Avoid Rush

Edward J. McRoan, deputy collector of internal revenue here, issued some timely advice today to those who haven't filed their income tax returns as yet.

McRoan said he expects a heavy increase in business in his office beginning the first part of March and lasting up to the deadline for filing regular income tax returns, March 15.

He advised all who haven't filed to do so before the heavy rush starts. Long waits in a line can be avoided, he explained.

The deputy collector said his office is handling about 50 tax returns each day for residents of Fayette County.

Those who want to avoid penalties should file both their income tax returns and estimated tax returns before the deadline.

A declaration of estimated tax must be made by everyone who expects to receive in 1951 either (a) wages subject to withholding in excess of $4,500 plus $600 for each exemption—for example $5,100 in the case of a single person with no dependents; $6,300 in the case of a married couple with one dependent or (b) income from all other sources in excess of $100, provided his total income is expected to amount to $600 or more.

McRoan said he had limited supplies of all types of forms, and indicated that he will be in his office all through the day each week to assist residents of this county in preparing their income and estimated tax returns.

Kay Morter New 4-H Club President

Kay Morter was elected the new president of the We Do-od It 4-H Club at their meeting Monday evening Feb. 5 at the home of Esther and Sammy Marting.

Vice president of the group will be Mary Lou Sollars. Secretary for the coming year will be Esther Marting, and Bill Case will be the treasurer. The news reporter for the club will be Roberta Theobald, and the recreation leader will be Danny Joe Palmer. Sam Marting and Gene Mark are the club's advisors.

Albert G. Cobb, assistant county agent, spoke to the group on the club's work for the coming year. After the talk members were treated with refreshments.

Next month's meeting will be held at the home of Bill Case on March 4 from 2 to 4 P. M.

Y-Teens Thanked For Stadium Help

The Washington C. H. School Board has commended the Senior Y-Teens for selling refreshments at football games to help build up the stadium fund. A letter from the board was read to the group at its last meeting Tuesday at the high school.

Announcement was made at the meeting that the national teen-age program staff has asked the club here to participate in a survey on teen-aged problems and family relations. Each member filled out the questionnaires and also answered questions which are desired by the state headquarters.

Abe Todd Funeral Rites on Friday

Funeral services for Abe Todd will be held at 2 P. M. Friday at the Powers Funeral Home in Jamestown, according to an announcement made Thursday morning. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday evening. Burial will be made in the Mill-edgeville Plymouth Cemetery.

Moose Postpone Meet

The regular business meeting of the Women of the Moose has been postponed from Friday to a week from Friday, February 16, because of the weather conditions.

Heat, Water And Food Costs At Hospital

In the Fayette County Memorial Hospital report made on the first eight months of operation (lacking eight days) up to January 1 this year, the dietary department showed a total of 27,570 meals served.

The total cost of food consumed during that time was $10,911.20.

Items which few people recognize as meaning considerable expense in such an institution were paper goods, $422.28, and miscellaneous items such as soaps and replacing broken dishes and extra new dishes needed showed a cost of $293.42.

The cost of electricity for the entire hospital used during the period reported upon was $2,267.42, gas and other heat expense was $2,827.47, water $817.28 and sewage charges $125.

Scouts To Attend Church in Group

A large number of Boy Scouts in Washington C. H. will join in national observance of "Boy Scout Sunday" by attending morning services at the First Presbyterian Church.

They will attend the 10:30 A. M. worship services in a group to hear Rev. Harold J. Braden deliver a sermon entitled "Life in Four Dimensions."

All branches of the Scouts and their parents will attend a potluck supper Monday Feb. 12 at 6:30 P. M. in the Memorial Hall. This supper will climax the week-long observance of "Boy Scout Week." Ralph Barger, head of the camping and activities committee, will be in charge of the program. Assisting him on the committee will be Frank Truitt, Harold Thomas and Eldon Long.

World Day of Prayer Set at Church Here

Residents of the community got another reminder that World Day of Prayer will be observed at the First Baptist Church at 2 P. M. Friday. The St. Andrew's Episcopal Church will be in charge.

Star Courts Moon And Great Number View Phenomenon

One of the great stars was moonstruck Wednesday night, and the extraordinary behavior of the star attracted widespread attention throughout this area.

For a short time early in the evening the star apparently kissed the moon and hung about the lower tip of the moon for some little time before slowly drifting away and finally vanishing.

Telephones jangled as one person after another called friends, and the friends in turn called their friends.

At one time the star appeared to be resting against the tip of the moon. The phenomenon immediately attracted attention.

It was the first time that such a phenomenon was ever beheld here and there is reason to believe that it will not occur again during the lifetime of the present generation after the present visitation is ended.

Citizens will be star and moon gazing again Thursday night to see if the phenomenon reoccurs—and it probably will.

Some people, not well versed in astronomy, feared that the star and moon were about to collide, but the star was many hundreds of millions of miles beyond the moon.

The U. S. Reclamation Service says crops valued at more than $500,000,000 were produced on irrigated western land in 1949.

UP A TREE

They chopped down a 26 foot tree in Portales, N. M., to rescue a 2 year old climber --- the limbs were too small to hold adult rescuers.

If you're "up a tree" trying to stay within a budget, remember that PENNINGTON BREAD gives the most nourishment for your money.

Broadcast on Fayette Farm To Be Aired

Mr. and Mrs. James Wolfe will be interviewed over Radio Station WOSU, Columbus, at 12 noon Friday. Maurice White, extension radio editor, made a recording of their voices recently on the Bolton Farm. Alvin W. Barr, farmers home administrator for this area, participated in arranging for the broadcast and recording.

Wolfe tells about the general farm setup on the Bolton Farm and the problems involved of young farmers getting started. Wolfe goes into some detail on soil conservation practices, the changes in the field rotation and fertilizing practices followed.

A large part of the program is devoted to facilities available for farm financing through the Farmers Home Administration. A large number of Fayette County farmers use this service under the direction of Barr. Each one of these farms is a splendid demonstration of good farming practices and community-minded citizens helping to make Fayette County a better place in which to live. The children belong to 4-H clubs in their community.

This radio program will be of interest to many Fayette County people. It will be an opportunity to hear what Fayette County farming is like over the radio.

Fred S. Hanna Laid To Rest Wednesday

Funeral services for Fred S. Hanna were held Wednesday at 2 P. M. at the Gerstner Funeral Home, with Rev. Henry Leeth in charge.

Rev. Leeth read the Scripture, offered prayer, read a memoir and delivered the sermon. Mrs. Gladys Sibole and Mrs. Lydia Rumer sang the hymns "Beyond The Sunset" and "Good Night and Good Morning."

Burial was made in the Bloomington Cemetery. The pallbearers were: Basil, Albert, Orris, Clinton and Alva Hatfield and Paul Donohoe.
